John Anderson

Concepts for the Clarinet Teacher

Concepts for the Clarinet Teacher was written specifically for college music education majors studying the clarinet as a secondary instrument. It focuses on the 'concepts' of clarinet playing and teaching. Musical exercises were composed at an adult level to challenge the student who already performs on another instrument. Appropriate solo excerpts are included as well as duets emphasizing a particular technique. The text discusses 'how' to teach a technique and includes when to use alternate fingerings. The book is appropriate for either class or private study with students who have little or no background in clarinet.

Excerpts I for Solo Clarinet

This solo work, written in 1972, gives the performer the discretion to arrange the structure of the composition. After the opening page, the performer may select any order for the first eight excerpts. An 'Interlude' may be placed between any of these first eight excerpts. A ninth excerpt ends the composition. Microtones, challenging technique, extreme range, and theater are found along side pleasant melodic writing.

Pan I for Solo Clarinet

Pan I typifies the Far East musical style. The work starts and ends slowly and dreamy. The middle dance-like section emphasizes the pentatonic scale. The work was premiered at the 1997 International Clarinet Association Conference in Lubbock, Texas, and has been recorded by Im-Soo Lee, Associate Principal Clarinet with the Seoul Philharmonic Orchestra.

Monadnock Moods for Solo Clarinet

Monadnock Moods, a 4-movement work, was one of several works composed while the composer was in residence at the MacDowell Colony, Peterborough, New Hampshire, during the summer of 1982. The studio in which the composer worked provided a clear view over a valley of Mt. Monadnock, located to the south of the Colony. Weather changes provided a delightful palette of moods evoked by the mountain from the introspective sublime to the exuberant and playful results of sunlight and white puffs of clouds dancing over its gentle contours.

Paul Richards: Magic Forest Scenes

Magic Forest Scenes are a pair of surreal evocations from a composite imaginary other-world drawn from a lifelong love of fiction and mythology. The rhapsodic first movement, "Lazy Blues-Snake River God Courts the North Wind" contrasts with the scherzo second movement, "Tiny Hyper Spirit-Bear Escapes the Grumpy Goblins' Lair". The work was composed for Mitchell Estrin in 2000. Rapid technique and colorful writing. Some flutter tonguing required.

Judith Lang Zaimont: Astral for Solo Clarinet

The emotional trajectory of this eight-minute, contemplative movement is roughly equivalent to one very long phrase. It is largely unmetered, and its varying segments call upon high degrees of both technical and expressive prowess from the performer. The clarinet's registers are explored slowly one by one during the phrase's upcurve (ultimately covering a range of three-and-one-half octaves), but blend together in the final stages.

Messenger: Solo de Concours

SCP-M1093 $6.95

This famous solo was composed for the graduation and solo competition for the Paris Conservatory in 1899. Its great use of the clarinet has made it a favorite ever since then. Performance suggestions for the cadenza and high register fingerings by John Anderson are included. A CD with the piano accompaniment recorded at both practice and performance tempos is available as a separate purchase.

Carl (Karl) Stamitz: Concerto No. 3 in B-flat Major

SCP-S1292 $12.50

This Concerto for Clarinet is one of the most popular works in the clarinet repertoire of this period. It is typical of instrumental concerti in the Mannheim style consisting of three movements, with a slow expressive movement between two faster movements, the final one a rondo in 6/8. It was written between 1777-1782. This new edition includes extensive performance suggestions by John Anderson including a complete (optional) ornamentation of the slow movement. A CD of the piano accompaniment is also available separately.

Continuum: A Set of Six Duos for Woodwinds and Piano

Each piece of the set utilizes techniques and devices of a particular musical period or style of Western music. These settings, however, employ contemporary musical practices, a musical perspective not unlike recalling an experience of long ago. The music is of medium-advanced grade scored for two flutes, or two oboes, or two clarinets with piano; or they may be played in interchangeable combinations such as flute-clarinet-piano, flute-oboe-piano, or oboe-clarinet-piano.

Judith Lang Zaimont

Folksong Fantasy [2 clarinets, Alto Clarinet, Bass Clarinet]

Folksong Fantasy is a lyrical, expressive 'visit' with a folksong melody the composer originally wrote as end-title music for a film. Heard first as an unadorned tune for bass clarinet, the melody is then developed within a rich harmonic tapestry and re-presented several times with changes in texture, pace and atmosphere. All four instruments take their turn as fluid, solo 'singers', and the one-movement work concludes with a defined elegance.

Jeanné Publication Judith Lang Zaimont

From the Greatland: Woman's Songs [Clarinet, Mezzo, Piano]

A 7-movement work for mezzo-soprano, clarinet and piano (clarinetist and pianist also double on Eskimo drum). This is the story of an old Eskimo woman, put out on the ice to die, as was the tradition of the tribe. In the seven movements, she has several dreams of her life. At the end, in a very dramatic musical moment, we hear her cries of anguish and she dies.

"Powerful and inspired, Zaimont's chromatic language is appropriate for such a dark subject.... Her ingenious use of instrumental color, such as the Alaskan pan drum, keeps our imagination churning. The dusky mezzo-soprano croons a series of dreams and memories; ... her use of the clarinet mouthpiece to produce devilish effects suggesting sound of the wilderness, is especially imaginative."
