Jeanné Publication Ferling/Rousseau 24 Melodic Studies

These 24 melodic studies are the slow etudes from Ferling 48 Etudes for oboe, op. 31. There are many studies that address technical issues unique to the saxophone, but Eugene Rousseau, in his introduction to this new edition, states that he finds these lyrical studies to be of great value for the development of tone, musical phrasing and breathing, and vibrato on the saxophone. He has added his own fingering suggestions where needed.

Huydts: Sonata for Alto Saxophone and Piano

The two movements highlight a specific aspect of the expressive capabilities of the saxophone. In the first movement the saxophone introduces an expressive melody set against a soft murmuring, almost serene piano accompaniment. In the second movement both instruments seem to compete in virtuosity and power. Total duration: 17 minutes
